Marine Court VII

Set on the seventh floor of Marine Court in St Leonards-on-Sea, this one-bedroom flat takes in sea views from its brilliantly bright living room. A recessed balcony provides the perfect outlook for observing the seascape and life along the shore. Designed by Kenneth Dalglish and Roger K. Pullen, the art deco building was completed in 1938. Grade II-listed, Marine Court is currently undergoing an extensive and carefully managed refurbishment to restore it to its original glory.

The Building

The first foundations of Marine Court were laid in 1936, with construction completed in 1938. An early pioneer of steel-frame construction, the building is 14 storeys high and sits broadside to the seafront. Its form was overtly based on the Queen Mary, a transatlantic cruise ship which entered commercial service in 1936. The east end of Marine Court is shaped to imitate the curved, stacked bridge front of the Queen Mary; the eastern restaurant and ballroom served to imitate the fo'c'sle deck of the ship and played host to Jimi Hendrix and David Bowie gigs.

Marine Court VII

The Tour

The lift that ascends to the seventh-floor entrance of the flat evokes the building's early history with its wood panelling and brass accents. A rarity in Marine Court, the apartment is dual aspect and has living and sleeping spaces divided by a central hallway. Original floorboards run throughout and lend a grounding warmth to the fresh interiors.

To the front of the plan, a generous south-facing living room opens to the wide balcony overlooking the seafront. The windows, sea and big skies lend an expansive feel to this simultaneously cosy room. To the rear, the kitchen and bedroom overlook a Regency terrace.

The beautifully maintained original kitchen is a bright and lively room. Fresh cream cabinetry and tiling are accented by deep red worktops. The clever period joinery mimics the exterior curves of Marine Court with its open shelving and upper units – a playful nod to the building's art deco heritage.

The generous and bright bedroom sits next door, where banks of original built-in wardrobes retain their chrome door furniture. The bathroom has been recently renovated while retaining the large 1930s bath with an overhead shower and the period heated towel rail.

Outdoor Space

The seventh-floor balcony offers an expansive view across the seafront, from Hastings Pier in the east and as far as Beachy Head to the west – fabulous for unbroken views of the sun and moon rising and setting over the sea. The balcony spans the width of the living room, with plenty of room for a terrace table and chairs. Recessed and sheltered on three sides, this fully south-facing spot is a wonderful suntrap year-round.

The Area

St. Leonards-on-Sea is a popular seaside town, partly due to its proximity to London but also because of its beautiful Regency architecture. Developer-architect James Burton and his son Decimus developed the resort in the early 19th century with echoes of London's Marylebone and Belgravia, where they had previously practised.

The apartment is directly opposite the pebble beach at St Leonards, with sand at low tide.

Marine Court is a short walk from Norman Road and King's Road, home to a growing number of independent delicatessens, bars, pubs, and restaurants. Highlights include Kino-Teatr, which combines an independent cinema with exhibition space and a wonderful café, Graze on Grand, and The Royal, which has a Bib Gourmand from the Michelin Guide. There is an abundance of 20th-century furniture shops and galleries featuring local and established artists. Marine Court itself has a parade of shops, galleries and restaurants on street level including Dark Circles for vinyls and coffee and cake.

Hastings is a short walk away along the wide modernist promenade with an upper and lower deck running from St Leonard's to Hastings. Goat Ledge beside the beach and Starsky and Hatch in the iconic Bottle Alley are just two of the café-bars to watch the sea and passersby from.

The area's rejuvenation is perhaps best illustrated by the additions of Hastings Contemporary by HAT Projects, which opened in 2012 as Jerwood Gallery, and a new RIBA Stirling Prize-winning pier by dRMM which opened in 2016. Bexhill-on-Sea, home to the 1930s art deco icon the De La Warr Pavilion, is a bike ride away along the promenade.

Direct train services from St Leonards (17-minute walk) reach London's Charing Cross and London Bridge in approximately an hour and a half, and Brighton in around an hour.
