Keeling House IV

Located in one of the finest Modernist residential buildings in London is this immaculately presented one-bedroom apartment with fantastic views from its elevated position on the fifth floor. Keeling House was built between 1954 and 1957 to a design by Denys Lasdun, one of Britain's greatest Modern architects, and was given a Grade II* listing in 1993 in recognition of its architectural significance. The building was renovated to a very high standard by Munkenbeck + Marshall in 2001.

The building is approached via a set of secure gates, and across a forecourt to the glazed atrium that is manned by a porter. The building's communal areas are maintained with great pride, and as a result, are impressively fresh and welcoming. There is lift access to a galleried walkway from which the apartment is entered.

The apartment's interiors are well-proportioned and wonderfully light. There is a bathroom to the left of a central hallway, and opposite, is the bright bedroom with painted concrete floor. The living area is open-plan and spans the full width of the apartment, with a kitchen at one end and reception area at the other. A run of windows along one wall lets in fantastic levels of natural light, with views to the south-west towards the City. The original floorboards in the living room have been painted a muted grey.

The interiors have recently undergone redecoration, including the addition of a new kitchen worktop and painting throughout. The building has a concierge, and Hyperoptic broadband. Residents also have use of a secure bike store that is conveniently positioned just outside the building's lobby.

Claredale Street is very well situated for both Columbia Road flower market and Broadway Market. Open space can be found at London Fields. Bethnal Green Underground station (Central Line) is approximately 500 metres away, providing easy access to Liverpool Street and the West End. Rail services are available from Cambridge Heath, and there are good bus links.

THE MODERN HOUSE

About

The Modern House is an estate agency that helps people live in more thoughtful and beautiful ways. We believe in design as a powerful force for good. Inspired by the principles of modernism, we represent design-led homes across the UK which celebrate light, space and a truth to materials. Esquire credits The Modern House with “rewriting the rulebook on estate agency” and GQ voted us “one of the best things in the world”.
